HOUSING

The NIH is unable to provide housing for trainees. The following housing resources are for informational purposes only. They are partial listings of rental resources in the Rocky Mountain Laboratories campus commuting area. No investigation is made of the renter or landlord. Neither the Federal Government nor the National Institutes of Health guarantees the availability, price, suitability, or quality of the listings or agents; nor do they endorse any private rental agency, lessor, or firm. All listings must be available without regard to race, color, sex, religion, or national origin and be in compliance with all state and county housing codes and requirements. All complaints against landlords or tenants should be reported to the local county Office of Landlord and Tenant Affairs.

Respond quickly to posted ads. Rentals, especially through property management companies, reportedly receive six to ten applications per available property. Property management companies state that often properties are not posted to websites if qualified applicants have applied to the company awaiting a rental.

Employ due diligence in reviewing and securing properties. Due to the low vacancy rate, properties may not have routine maintenance. Thoroughly review the contract and the property for damages. Photos are highly encouraged for documentation purposes.

Understand Montana and Federal Housing Rights, Responsibilities and Resources. Montana Attorney General’s Office provides general information for tenants to understand and confirm prior to moving in, rights and responsibilities for landlords and tenants, and provides a list of illegal actions by landlords. The website also links to resources, such as Montana’s Residential Landlord and Tenant Act, Fair Housing Act (federal law), Montana Fair Housing (suspected discrimination), Montana Legal Services Association (legal assistance), Montana Law Help (legal information), Montana Public Interest Research Group (legal information).
